A good person always puts others before themselves and always have a smile to share. Many people say that no matter what, I always have a smile on my face and how that brings them great joy. When people tell me that, it reminds me how much Aubrey Rose went through but she always had a smile on her face.

I am a Red Cross certified babysitter and I enjoy it very much. I usually baby-sit my neighbors. Every time I am asked to baby-sit, their parents say how they are so excited to see me, they won't stop talking about it.

I also went down to Tender Mercies and made dinner for the homeless. It really speaks to me to see a smile on their faces as they receive their meals. It leaves me speechless when I see them enjoy their meal and laugh and have good time with everyone around them. It is an experience that I will never forget.

For the past eight years, I have volunteered at my church festival all three nights. People always appreciate the service provided and the warm smiles that I provide myself. They also appreciate how kind I am to their children.

At the YMCA, located in Norwood, they have preschool program. My brother used to attend there so I would volunteer there to help the teachers and play with the children. I would play with them, help them fall asleep at nap-time, and read them some short stories. I would help the teachers clean-up, serve the snacks, and make the children's day worth wild.

Church is very important in a Catholic's life. I am a Eucharistic Minister for school masses and I performed the liturgical dance for both my school and my parish. Many people were delighted by my participation. I was the only who danced. Sister Carol called me first, knowing that I wouldn't let her down. I was the only person, out of the people she called, who wanted to perform.

I have done several river sweeps and felt very good about it. Pollution is very serious now in days and knowing that I helped clean-up the pollution along the Ohio River, just makes me very happy.

I also like to volunteer at our community's public library. I help the librarians out by restocking shelves and organizing them, open the security cases on DVDs, and organize the back room. This helps the librarians because they do not have to stop what they are doing and spend that time on crafts with the kids, helping someone check-out, or help someone find something they need.

A smile is priceless and everyone deserves one. It really means a lot to me to know that I do all of this to help others. I like to take the gifts I possess and share and share them with the others in around me. What I will do to see someone smile...
