I have done many extra-curricular activities and community service projects that have helped me become a better person and have hopefully had an impact on others.

I love my community and I enjoy helping others to improve Westwood. I have supported my community by cleaning Harrison Avenue with the Westwood Civic Association, participating in a rally to support police officers in district three, cleaning up Ryan Park with the Ryan Commons Team, and I have helped out at various nursing homes. I am very interested in politics and I have volunteered to help and support various local candidates. When my dad ran for city council I helped him by delivering literature, putting up campaign signs, and walking in parades. I also volunteered for the McCain/Palin campaign. I have also done many different walks to support various charities. I walked in a diabetes walk, a Children's Hospital walk, and a Chron's disease walk. Everyday I grow in my catholic faith by singing in the choir and serving mass.

Once I started helping others I got addicted. Helping others makes me feel good because I know that I made someone happy by doing something so simple for them. Just like Aubrey I always have a smile on my face. When I have a smile on other people start to seem happier. What I learned about helping others is that it makes me feel good knowing that I helped someone else and encourages me to do more.
