

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Hollenkamp

I wanted to write to you about myself so I could try to win one of the scholarships you are offering in memory of your daughter, Aubrey. Instead I decided to write to you about my friend, my cousin, my classmate, Emily Weidner. Emily is really a nice person. She never has anything mean to say about anyone. She can make friends with anybody and she is really good at making you laugh. She is almost never in a bad mood. Emily is someone that everybody likes. She doesn't have any enemies.

I am writing to let you know about Emily because I am sure that she doesn't feel like trying for a scholarship right now. You see, last week, Emily's ten year old brother, Michael, passed away. Since Emily's parents will have so many other things to pay for, I thought that this scholarship would help them out when Emily goes to Roger Bacon next year.

I hope I have convinced you that Emily is a special person. I know she is really special to me and all the kids in my class.

Sincerely,

Patrick Anello
